

This is a great idea... as it seems there is a stall in bring cost effective high speed data transmissions to the household. Both cable and dsl are slowly becoming "slow" as internet traffic increases and multimedia requirements increase. One could say its Moore's law for the internet. We will need more speed, just like the switch from dial-up to cable/dsl/isdn.